2012 GOGREEN CONFERENCE PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS A GROWING SUSTAINABLE ECONOMY IN CENTRAL TEXAS AND THE BOTTOM-LINE BENEFITS OF GREEN BUSINESS PRACTICES

February 9, 2012 (Austin, Texas) – The GoGreen Conference proudly announces its full 2012 Austin program, available for review at austin.gogreenconference.net. The agenda will highlight particularly successful aspects of the flourishing sustainable economy in the Central Texas region, and outline the bottom-line benefits of adopting green business practices. Two tracks — “Vision” and “Nuts & Bolts” — will provide attendees with both strategic blueprints and tactical, how-to advice for leveraging sustainability at their organizations.

"This program is the result of a strong collaborative effort with regional stakeholders and businesses," said Ericka Dickey-Nelson, Founder and Event Manager of the GoGreen Conference. "Our goal was to build an agenda that tackles the unique challenges and opportunities present in the Central Texas region, and supports the growth of its green economy. We believe the 2012 program will be an incredible resource to business leaders here who want to green their organizations without sacrificing profitability."
